His Summer Sentiments

(Selected.)

Summer is the season that is pleasin' to my soul,
When Thunders on a picnic and flashin' of his roll;
When the birds are gillivatin' 'round the ripple o' the rills,
With the juice of ripe blackberries a-makin' red their bills.

Lay me on a river bank,
Any time o' day;
The dreams for my companions
And the world can roll away.

Of course, old Winter's jolly, though the sky has lost its blue;
And the icy angels yonder fling the snowballs down to you;
But what I say is, Summer, with the rustle in the pines,
And the sun a-burnin' beauty in the honeysuckle vines.

Then it's—lay me on a river bank,
Just any time o' day,
And the cows may clip the clover,
And the world may roll away.

WEDDINGS.

A charming home wedding solemnized today at high noon was that uniting the lives of Miss Nil Kenan and Eugene Gill, of Okmulgee, Okla. The ceremony occurred at the home of the bride's parents, 1714 Boulevard, and was performed by Rev. Henry Law, of the Highland Park Methodist church. The Kenan home was attractively decorated throughout with palms, ferns and dainty greenery, interspersed with quantities of cut flowers.

Just prior to the ceremony Miss Pauline Spring very sweetly sang, "Because," and was followed with "Still as the Night," by Mrs. Lella T. Moore. There were no bridal attendants.

The young couple entered the parlor alone, to the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march, played by Mrs. Thompson Wheat, which was also softly played during the ceremony.

The bride was handsomely gowned in a modish tailored suit of gray cloth, with which was worn a French Milan hat, in straw color, trimmed with gold and silver wheat, and anemists.

The bridal bouquet, which was especially beautiful, was sent from Kansas City, and was composed of bride's roses.

The only ornament worn was an exquisite necklace of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom.

Following the ceremony and congratulations, Mrs. W. W. Evans sang "All For You," in her usual pleasing style.

The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kenan, of this city. She is the possessor of a beautiful contralto voice, and is well known in musical circles, having sung in the choir of the First Presbyterian church.
